DO I HAVE PARASITES?

We get parasites from food, water, contact with pets and the environment. We can be host to several hundred different types of parasites ranging from microscopic amoebas to tapeworms that can grow to be several feet long. Most of the time we do not notice parasites. We can afford to share the nutrients from food and eliminate their waste without too much burden on our system. As populations of parasites gradually increase, we start having issues like allergies, congestion, restlessness, sleeplessness and poor digestion that we accept as our normal health status. These issues come on over a long period of time so we do not notice them as anything wrong. Since parasites are so prevalent, it seems everyone can benefit from a yearly parasite cleanse.

HERBAL HELP:

There are plenty of herbs to help with these visitors. It is important to stay with a parasite cleanse for at least four weeks, which is the reproductive cycle of most parasites. This takes care of the adult worms and the eggs. Since parasites reproduce during the full moon, starting a cleanse a week before the full moon can increase efficacy. Parasites are the first to get the nutrients from food, since they are in the digestive system. It is best to take parasite-cleansing herbs before a meal, this way they are getting anti-parasitic herbs instead of food.

The subject of parasites can be unpleasant, yet it is more common than most people are aware of. Becoming proactive about parasite maintenance can make a big difference in overall health. Doing a preventative program can ease your worries about uninvited guests.

WORMWOOD COMBINATION™

The original Wormwood Combination formula by Hanna Kroeger, stems from a long history of folk medicine, and decades of hands-on work with people's health needs. Hanna Kroeger's Wormwood Combination is a balanced formula that addresses parasites while not adversely affecting the host.

In traditional herbalism, bitter digestive tonic herbs are used to paralyze and kill parasites in the digestive tract as well as controlling their eggs and improving digestive secretions, a natural protection against parasite overgrowth. At the same time, the bitter principles help to increase elimination, so that the parasites' toxins may be excreted at a faster rate.

Wormwood has been used to kill parasites (especially roundworms), reduce mucus, promote bowel movement and urination, tone the stomach and digestion, and clear toxins from the blood, liver and gall bladder.

Traditional herbalists use Male Fern to paralyze parasites so that they may be more easily passed out of the system.

Black Walnut leaf adds laxative effects to ensure elimination and has impressive anti-parasite properties, while Quassia soothes and protects the stomach.

Cloves not only kills parasites and their eggs but also helps reduce the gassiness and cramping that many other de-worming formulas can cause, only exacerbating the digestive distress many people experience with parasite conditions.

CLOVES

Cloves contain sesquiterpenes that are very effective at killing parasites and their eggs. Cloves help to diminish the digestive discomforts caused by parasites and while doing a parasite cleanse. Cloves have been traditionally used to harmonize digestive function, calm the stomach, promote bowel movement and reduce gas and mucus.
